

TAFT SENDS A MESSAGE TODAY

Tells Congress His Views On The Question Of Government And Needs Of Porto Rico.

WELL RECEIVED BY BOTH HOUSES

Goes Into Detail Of The Needs And Requirements Of The Island--Takes Many Specific Cases Into Consideration.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., May 10.—President Taft today sent to congress a special message recommending legislation at the present extra session, amending the Foraker act under which Porto Rico is governed. The president directs the attention of congress to the fact that the island has been under the Foraker act for nearly five years, and that the situation of the island is such that it is necessary to take action upon it.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States, the president says, in the desire of certain of the island's political leaders for power and he adds that the present situation indicates that the United States has come too far in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans. He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

The president suggests to congress the wisdom of submitting to the appropriation committee the question of qualifying some of the provisions of the fundamental act as to the respective jurisdictions of the executive council and the legislative assembly. But no action of this kind, the president says, should be taken until the Foraker act is amended so that when the legislative assembly shall adjourn without making the appropriation necessary to carry on the government, sums equal to the appropriations made in the previous year for the respective purposes shall be available for the current revenues, and shall be drawn by the warrant of the auditor on the treasurer and countersigned by the governor. Such a provision applies to the legislatures of the Philippines and Hawaii and it has prevented in those two countries any misuse of the power of appropriation.

The president reviews the establishment of the present government for Porto Rico by the Foraker act. He says the statute directing how the business of the government is to be conducted is not clear and whether this function is not committed solely to the executive council but in practice the legislative assembly has appropriated for all the expenses other than for salaries fixed by congress and the president adds, "It is too late to reverse that construction."

The president says that ever since the institution of the present assembly by the Foraker act, the executive council has uniformly held up the appropriation bills until the last minute of the regular session and has sought to use the power to do so as a means of compelling the concurrence of the executive council in legislation which the house desired. In the last regular legislative session the attitude of the executive council in refusing to pass bills led the house of delegates to refuse to pass the necessary appropriation bills. Mr. Taft discusses the acts of the legislature and of the council in detail and says the facts recited demonstrate the willingness of the representatives of the people in the house of delegates to subvert the government in order to secure the passage of certain legislation. The question whether the proposed legislation should be enacted into law was left by the fundamental act to the joint action of the executive council and the house of delegates as the legislative assembly. The house of delegates, says the president, proposes itself to secure this legislation without respect to the position of the executive council, "or else to pull down the government."

This growing spirit shows that too great power has been vested in the delegates. The message presents an exhaustive economic review of conditions on the island, its trade and its wealth, its improved educational facilities.

It points out that "there never was a time in the history of the island when the average prosperity of the Porto Ricans has been higher, his opportunity greater, his liberty in thought and action more secure." For the first time in its history, Porto Rico, he says, is living under laws enacted by its own legislature.

The president points out that if the Porto Ricans desire a change in the form of the Foraker act this is a matter of congressional consideration, dependent upon the effect of such a change on the real political progress on the island. Such a change, he says, should be sought in an orderly way and not brought to the attention of congress by "paralyzing the arm of the existing government."

The president says that the fact of the Porto Ricans forgetting the generosity of this government "should not be an occasion for surprise, nor in dealing with a whole people who can it be made the basis of a charge of ingratitude."

The message concludes: "When we with the consent of the people of Porto Rico assumed guardianship over them and the guidance of their destinies we must have been conscious that a people that had enjoyed so little opportunity for education could not be expected safely for themselves to exercise the full power of self-government and the present development is only an indication that we have gone somewhat too fast in the extension of political power to them for their own good."

"The change recommended may not immediately convince those controlling the house of delegates of the mistake they have made in the extremely to which they have been willing to resort for political purposes but in the long run it will secure more careful and responsible exercise of the power they have."

"There is not the slightest evidence that there has been on the part of the government or any member of the executive council a disposition to usurp authority or to withhold approval of any legislation as was for a lack of sympathy with the best aspirations of the Porto Rican people."

For want of a quorum the house took no action on the President's message, recommending the remedial legislation for Porto Rico. In the senate the message was referred, without discussion, to the committee on Porto Rico.

Field institutes will be held under the supervision of J. G. Millard in connection with this spraying work, in order to give the farmers information and advice concerning spraying.

In Winnebago county the demonstrations will be conducted on the orchard of the Northern hospital at Oshkosh, and on the farm of P. T. Smith, near Oshkosh. In Kewaunee county the work will be done on the Decker farm near Kaukauna. In Sauk county the demonstrations will be conducted on the orchard of A. D. Brown, near Baraboo.

Lady Curzon (Mary) 2,000,000
Dowager Duchess of Marlborough (Miss Hammerley) 2,000,000
Duchess of Manchester (Helena Zimmern) 2,000,000
Countess of Suffolk (Daisy) 2,000,000

New York, May 10.—Two million dollars is reported to be the "dot" that goes with Miss Nora Iselin, whose marriage to Count Coloredo Mansfield is announced to take place today at the Iselin country home at New Rochelle.

No elaborate wedding marks this latest union of American dollars and a foreign title. On the contrary, it has seemed to be the desire of the parties most concerned to avoid all publicity in regard to the marriage and the details of the wedding. This extreme reticence is said to be due, in part at least, to the early opposition on the part of C. Oliver Iselin to his daughter's choice of a husband. The well known banker and yachtman is understood to entertain a strong dislike for international matrimonial alliances, particularly where a member of his own family is concerned. But the determination of his wife and daughter was the day, and after a personal interview with his prospective son-in-law, in which the latter made a most favorable impression, Mr. Iselin gave his consent for the marriage to take place.

Miss Iselin and Count Coloredo Mansfield met for the first time last year, when Mr. Iselin and his family were in Rome. They became engaged to be married before Miss Iselin returned to New York, and the marriage would have occurred earlier had not Mr. Iselin been opposed to his daughter's marriage to a foreigner.

The Count is secretary of the Austrian Embassy at Rome and is said to belong to a highly distinguished family. His mother is the sister of Baron Schrenk, Austrian minister for foreign affairs, who lectured on the subject of Russia and Herzegovina, and so threatened the peace of Europe. The family own a castle near Aquila, which was built in 1302. The head of the house is Prince Joseph, who married twice, but is childless.

By marrying Miss Iselin the Count allies himself with one of the first families of New York. For many years the Iselins have been prominent in finance, in business and in the social life of the metropolis. The head of the family was Adrian Iselin, who died four years ago. His father was a Swiss capitalist, who came to this country from Basel, Switzerland, early in the last century as a representative of the silk and glove industries of Lyons.

Adrian Iselin was the founder of the banking house of A. Iselin & Co., of 36 Wall street. At the outbreak of the civil war his firm had gained such strength that it helped to finance the government. At his death Mr. Iselin's wealth was estimated at upwards of $20,000,000. Adrian Iselin left seven children, of whom C. Oliver Iselin is the oldest and consequently succeeded his father as head of the family and of the great banking house bearing their name. The large interests of the family are invested principally in railroads and mining stocks and real estate. Socially the family has for years ranked among the first in New York. C. Oliver Iselin is noted as a sportsman and particularly as a yachtsman. It was he who successfully defended the American Cup in the international yacht races against the Valkyrie I and II.

HEAVY SENTENCES FOR THE BOYLES WAS MEETED OUT

Men Gets Life Imprisonment and Woman Is Given Twenty-five Years and Fined Five Thousand Dollars.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Mercer, Pa., May 10.—Judge Williams today sentenced James H. Boyle, convicted of kidnapping Willie Whitten, to imprisonment for life. Mrs. Boyle gets twenty-five years and she was also fined five thousand dollars and costs.

Both Boyle and his wife collapsed completely upon hearing the sentence pronounced. Each was carried from the courtroom to a vehicle which conveyed them to the jail, and to their cells. The woman wept violently.

That the threats about suicide made by Mrs. Boyle last night were not mere idle words, was shown today, when it became known a razor, which had been secreted in her clothing, was taken from Mrs. Boyle today, and that she had taken what she says, "Enough morphine to kill two people." The morphine was taken between midnight and daylight, but had little effect on the woman.

Tuesday has been reserved as Alumni Day, when the sixty visiting committees composed of some three hundred alumni who have investigated every department of university activity, will report at the annual business meeting in the morning as to means whereby the alumni will take a more active part in the management of the university, and the association will be reorganized accordingly. The afternoon will be given to class reunions, and at 6:30, instead of at 1:00 p. m., as formerly, the annual alumni banquet will take place, with addresses by prominent alumni. In the evening the senior play will be repeated.

Wednesday morning the commencement exercises will be held in the Armory, when President Van Hise will address the graduating class and present the diplomas, after student representatives of the various colleges have delivered their orations. The week will close Wednesday night with the promenade concert, alumni reception, and alumni ball in the Armory.

CHEESEMAKERS GAIN LATEST CONTENTION

Have Secured Ruling from Railway Commission Relative to Their Shipments.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 10.—The local cheesemakers today won their case against the Milwaukee, North-Western, Wisconsin Central and Illinois Central roads, regarding cheese shipments. The railroad commission today ordered the abolition of the rule requiring the full name of the consignee to be on the package. This gave the cheese combination the names of buyers and hurt the local shippers. It seemed to be a scheme fixed up between the roads and the combination of cheese men to the detriment of the local shippers.

The injured man was taking an extra south from Janesville to Chicago and at the Harvard siding stopped his train to allow another to pass. While waiting he stepped from the engine to the ground, and the north-bound train, coming along at that moment, crushed him against his own engine, there not being sufficient space between the two trains to allow him to stand safely between the two locomotives. He was brought to Janesville on train 513, which arrives at about 4 o'clock, and his injuries attended to by Dr. W. H. Palmer. It was found that he had been badly bruised and that the muscles of his sides and thighs torn and strained. RAILWAY CIRCLES WATCH THE "SOO"

Claim Made That Wisconsin and Northern Road is to Be Swallowed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Appleton, Wis., May 10.—A well authenticated report reached Appleton today to the effect that the Soo line company, which recently absorbed the Wisconsin Central railway is now negotiating a deal for the acquisition of the Wisconsin and Northern railway, the right-of-way of which extends from Appleton to Madison, a distance of about thirty miles. Agent Thompson, representing the Soo line officials, was in Appleton looking over the holdings of the Wisconsin and Northern company, and later took a trip over the route of the latter road. He declares that indications are that a deal for the purchase of the Wisconsin and Northern will be closed in the near future.

The Wisconsin and Northern has built its line from Shawano north and for some months has had about fifty miles of track in operation. It is reported that this end of the line between Shawano and Appleton will be built this summer.

According to the report, the Soo line, if the pending deal is favorably consummated, will not cross the river at Appleton, but will extend the line from here to Neenah on the north side of the Fox river, entering the latter city via the company's present freight yards. If this deal does not fall through this territory will be afforded a short line to St. Paul and Minneapolis, the Soo line route being over the Wisconsin and Northern 35 miles shorter than that of any other road touching this territory. The Wisconsin and Northern over most of its 36-mile right-of-way penetrates timber land, much of which is owned by the Monahan-Wooden Ware company. It is said that the timber along this route cannot be cut and marketed in less than 25 years.

MEMBER OF HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY HUNG IN EFFIGY

Dummy Labeled "Rahr" Was Cut Down From Telephone Pole by Police at Early Hour This Morning.

As he reached the high school building in rounding up his beat on South High street at an early hour this morning, Officer Thomas Morrissey was startled to behold, swinging with a slow swaying from a telephone pole just across the way, the limp, angular and very disreputable looking figure of a man-of-straw. The dummy's head was fashioned from the log of a gentleman's woolen undergarment. "Ho" were a blue serge coat and a pair of pepper and salt trousers which had been damaged in some amateur barn or chicken-coop painting stunt and a pair of "Ho" shoes which had also seen hard service and were matted on the wooden frame at very painful, non-anatomical angles. A pale green necktie manufactured by Rogers, Post & Co., New York, was tied jauntily over a shirt-bosom fashioned from a fragment of the Janesville Daily Gazette. Fastened to the back of the scarecrow, with a white-headed pin, was a great white pasteboard placard on which had been laboriously printed with a paper dauber and black ink the single word—

RAHR

Officer Morrissey lost no time in cutting down the mannikin and conveying it to the police station. Thus the work was all lost on the high school faculty, to whom the image was evidently expected to convey a terrible warning, as well as a timely reminder to the faculty that they were in advance of beholding it with mingled thrills of awe and admiration.

Source of the Suggestion. At Lawrence university, Appleton, two weeks ago, four students, including a young man from Janesville, were suspended by Vice-President Trent who was acting as president in the absence of Dr. Plantz, and shortly thereafter Mr. Trent was hung in effigy by unknown parties. To that incident, which received considerable attention in the newspapers, last evening's prank probably owed its conception and execution. Suppl. Mail this morning declared that the faculty has no definite suspicions as to the authorship of the sorry joke but that if the guilty parties are high school students and their identity is discovered they will undoubtedly be expelled.

A Severe Disciplinary. The only grudge entertained by any of the scholars against Assistant Principal Louis P. Rahr is concerned with his alleged severe methods of dealing with young men who are caught playing practical jokes. As an instance of this, it is pointed out that Prof. Rahr refused to discover any harmony or humor in the whims of an alarm clock, ringing out from a vacant desk in the assembly room during the period he was in charge, one afternoon about a fortnight ago. Three young men had secured the timepiece from a youth who was taking it home from the repair-shop, and when the "plot" was uncovered, the trio were temporarily suspended for their participation, and forced to make abject apologies as a preliminary to re-admission.

She was 82 years of age and resided here until a few years ago when she went to live with her son in Milwaukee. She is survived by five children, William of Janesville, Gustave of Milwaukee, Charles of Germany, Mrs. Mollie of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Anna Dudley of Chicago. The remains will be brought here Tuesday at 12:45 on the North-Western road and will be conveyed direct to Oak Hill cemetery.

James W. Van Hise The funeral services of the late James W. Van Hise were held this afternoon at two o'clock from the late residence on Madison street, the Rev. J. H. Tipple officiating. The service was very well attended, a number from the G. A. R. being present. The coffin was bedecked with many beautiful flowers. The remains were taken to Mt. Pleasant cemetery for interment.

Thomas Dalton. This morning at one-fifty, Thomas Dalton, for many years a resident of this city, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Rau, 512 West Milwaukee street. Mr. Dalton was born in County Kerry, Ireland, in 1830. In 1859 he came to this city and has lived here ever since. Up until ten years ago he was employed on the C. M. & St. P. railroad, but then relinquished his position and for several years has retired from active life. For two years he was proprietor of a saloon on West Milwaukee street. In 1881 he was married, his wife passing away just a year ago. The children are: Mrs. Fred Rau, Mrs. John Welber, James, Maurice and Matthew Dalton, all of this city. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 8:30 from the home and at nine o'clock from St. Patrick's church.

DEATH CLAIMS 9 IN SMALL CRAFT

Sink to Watery Graves Before Rescue-ers Can Reach Them—Two Coast Artillery Men Lose Lives—Fatal Wreck in Missouri.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 10.—Scores of men today are dragging the Susquehanna river for the bodies of a woman, two children and six men who were drowned yesterday when a small boat in which they had started for an outing was capsized.

The dead are: Thomas Andrews, William Andrews, Theodore Andrews, Frank Marionovsky, Adam Strukus, Frank Gansofsky, his wife and two boys, John and Michael.

The nine persons had started out for a boat ride in the small craft. While they remained close to the shore all went well, but as the boat drifted into the swift current it began to dip water.

The occupants of the boat became panic-stricken and called frantically for assistance. Some boys at play on the bank of the river heard the screams for help, but before a boat could be secured the rowboat in mid-stream filled with water and sank.

Victims Unable to Swim. None of the occupants could swim and they were swept down the river to their death by the rushing current. None of the bodies has been recovered.

One of the boys who witnessed the tragedy said the man who was rowing seemed to dip his oars too deep. This, he said, caused the water to splash over the side of the boat. The woman, in order to avoid the water, started to move toward the stern of the craft. This shifting of the seat caused the boat to rapidly fill with water and in a few minutes all were foundering in the rushing river. The two boys grabbed the clothing of their mother as the boat toppled over and the three disappeared almost instantly. The river is high and the swift current carried three of the men to within 50 feet of the bank, while the others were drowned within a stone's throw of the scene of the accident.

The state police are dragging the river, but it is the belief that the bodies have been carried far down the stream.

Coast Artillery Men Drown. Boston, May 10.—Two members of the coast artillery corps at Fort Warren, Daniel Doherty and Cornelius Crowley, were drowned by the capsizing of their rowboat in the wash of a steamer off Houghs Neck last night.

One Killed; Five Hurt. Springfield, Mo., May 10.—One man was killed and five injured yesterday when the southeastern limited on the St. Louis & San Francisco road left the tracks. The engine was overturned and Engineer Charles Haines of Fort Scott killed.

The injured are: M. A. Welder, mail clerk, Kansas City; Kan. T. E. Coffman, fireman, Fort Scott; Perry Posoy, Kansas City, Kan.; H. C. Hooper, Kansas City, Kan.

The train was going 50 miles an hour. The accident was caused by a heavy rain washing the ballast from under 500 feet of track.

History of Tuberculosis. George Frederick Laidlaw of New York says that we have passed from the stage in which we tried to kill the tubercle bacillus into one in which we try to help the individual, through his power of resistance, to kill it. This he calls vitalism.—Medical Record.

OLD RESIDENT OF EDGERTON IS DEAD

Mrs. Bridget Mitchell, Aged Eighty-five, Died at Home of Mrs. John Ford Sunday Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Edgerton, May 10.—Mrs. Bridget Mitchell, an old settler, died at the home of Mrs. John Ford, north of town, Sunday morning at the age of eighty-five. She was born in Kings county, Ireland, in 1825. She was married to Michael Mitchell and in 1860 they came to America and settled on a farm west of this city, where they lived until the death of Mr. Mitchell fifteen years ago. Then Mrs. Mitchell disposed of her farm and bought a small home here, where she has lived until this winter, when she had the misfortune to break her hip, which together with lingering consumption caused her death. Mrs. Ford was brought up by Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and has done all that a fond daughter could do for her in her old years, taking her to her own home at the time of the accident and nursing and caring for her through the winter. Mrs. Mitchell leaves only a niece, who lives in the west, and a nephew, who lives in the east, both of whom she loved dearly. The funeral will be held from St. Joseph's church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. James Harlin.

D. J. McGiffin of Janesville was an over-Sunday visitor with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Howard. Melvin Johnson was down from Madison to spend Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Helen Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke of Stoughton spent Sunday with relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Henderson and son, Claude, of Milton Junction spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson.

Mrs. Will Nessel and daughter, Charles, of Sparta are visiting at the home of Mrs. Nessel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke. Theodore Clarke transacted business in Chicago today.

Mrs. John Splitter of Nowville passed quietly away at her home last evening of tuberculosis at the age of thirty. She was born in Germany and came to this country when a small child. At the age of twenty she was united in marriage to John Splitter and settled on the farm. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two sons and an infant daughter, who have the sympathy of a sorrowing community.

Thoughtless. Husband—"You must marry again, dearest, when I am gone, and that will be very soon." Wife—"No, Edward. No one will marry an old woman like me. You ought to have died ten years ago for that."—Penny Editorial.

ORION SUTHERLAND THROWN FROM WHEEL

Had Shoulder Dislocated And Sustained Other Injuries In Bike Accident This Afternoon.

While Orion Sutherland was coasting down the Milwaukee street hill about one o'clock this afternoon a small white dog got in the way of his bicycle and sent the wheel and rider sprawling. Mr. Sutherland had a shoulder thrown out of joint and his head badly cut, and seemed pretty seriously bruised and battered when friends helped him to his home at 401 East street, North. This afternoon, however, it was stated that he had sustained no injuries of a permanent character. The dog escaped without a scratch.

Tact Wins the Customer. A clerk in a department store had before him a woman no longer young. She was looking over some colors and was undecided. The saleswoman knew his business and knew human nature, too. Smilingly addressing the woman, he inquired: "Madam, is it for yourself or an old lady?" He sold the goods and gained the customer's good opinion.

EDUCATIONAL REFORM

The bill which passed the assembly by a two-thirds majority last Friday, admitting to the state university graduates from any high school in the state, whether such school was on the accredited list or not, is a move in the right direction.

Now if the legislature will supplement this action by appointing a competent committee with authority to revise the courses of study in the public schools, with a view to making it more helpful to 95 per cent of the pupils who never see the inside of the university, the people of the state will be more than gratified.

This great army of children and young people enter life from the public schools. It is a gross injustice to compel them to waste the formative years of life on studies supposed to prepare them for entrance to the university, and of no practical use for any other purpose.

The school of life is exacting, and not disposed to spend time in teaching boys and girls the things which the public schools are supposed to furnish.

The boy who leaves school with limited equipment is handicapped from the starting point. His penmanship, spelling and composition will not show much improvement after ten years of rough and tumble experience with the problems of everyday life.

The school, created to furnish this common equipment, failed in its mission, and a life-long injury to the boy is the result.

The state university ranks high as an institution of learning, and is an honor to the state. The two or three thousand Wisconsin young people annually enrolled as pupils are highly favored, but they represent a very small fragment of the scholars in attendance at the public schools, where the course of study should be so intensely practical as to prepare them in a measure for the great university of life.

If necessary to have a state university course in connection with the public schools it should not be obligatory, and should only apply to pupils who plan to enter the higher institutions of learning. The three "R's" have always been and will continue to be an important factor in the textbook education of the masses.

TARIFF ON OIL

When the tariff revision in congress placed oil on the free list there was general rejoicing all over the country because the notion prevailed that the act was intended as a direct slap at the Standard Oil company, and the name of this "iniquitous trust" is like a red rag to a bull, in the minds of the masses.

It now transpires, however, that the Standard Oil company is well satisfied with the free list proposition, while the "independents" are beseeching congress to restore the duty. The great corporation is so cleverly hated that many people believe that it owns and controls the world's supply of oil. The following statement will be a revelation:

"The banking house of H. P. Taylor & Co. of Pittsburgh has issued a circular on the tariff and petroleum in which they say:

and western Pennsylvania capital has been ever ready to make investments in oil and gas propositions and companies and individuals, having their headquarters in Pittsburgh, control and operate the greatest oil and gas properties in the world. Until now, they have never asked for protection, though the industry has contributed to the upbuilding of protected industries to a marvelous degree, the payments for lumber, cordage, tubing, casing, tools and machinery running far into the millions annually. Next to the railroads, the oil and gas companies are the largest consumers of iron and steel and, throughout the depression, the demand for tubing alone was an important contributor to the aggregate steel tonnage of the past fifteen months. Thousands of farmers in the principal producing states are receiving rents or royalties, or both, that have enriched them far beyond their previous expectations. It is estimated that fully 500,000 American citizens are employed in the oil and gas industry and that the value of crude oil alone is upwards of $150,000,000 per annum, while the value of the natural gas at the market exceeds $50,000,000 additional.

These independent companies are represented in the following states: Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, New York, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, California, Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma. They control 173,000 wells with a daily output of many hundred thousand barrels, and furnish employment to an army of men. The tariff is a large problem and getting bigger every day.

FEMININE FINANCE

"Some day I'm going to write a book on 'Feminine Finance' that will just knock the spots off the frozzled variety," said an unkind masculine individual the other day. "You see, I have an economical wife," continued the U. M. I. "Last week she invested in fifty pairs of silk stockings. By that transaction she decided she'd saved $5. She argued that each pair would have cost at least 10 cents more if she hadn't bought before the new tariff bill passed. So with the five-spot she got two new pairs of gloves. She reckoned up the probable future duty on these and found she was in about $2 more. Still chasing the economy bug, she annexed three yards of silk and calculated on a net custom house saving of 75 cents on a pound of chocolate that wasn't going to go up to a dollar in the near future—and I tell you I thought I was getting out of it easy."

This is the sort of economy practiced in New York, and the tariff discussion is responsible.

The announcement of the death of Father Vaughn will bring sadness to many people outside the church of his choice, for he was a genial Christian gentleman, loved and respected by all who knew him. His plans for the future were broad in scope and philanthropic in character, for he was a friend to young men and his life was largely devoted to helping them. His loss will be felt in the city selected for his home.

The government is to take a hand in the whiskey business and transportation companies acting as common carriers will no longer be permitted to dump the stuff into dry states indiscriminately as in the past. The bona fide consignee will be obliged to come out in the open, where the law can find him. The day of regulation is at hand, and good results should follow.

Senator Cummins of Iowa started in well with his maiden speech on the tariff, but his second effort contained a threat of lamp-post punishment if congress fails to revise the tariff downwards. Mob rule is bad enough but when a congressman endorses it, even by innuendo, he displays elements of weakness which unfit him for leadership.

Uncle Walt of Emporia

By WALT MASON
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

I dreamed I went to Paradise, far from this vale so dark, and having reached that happy land, MERELY I sought the baseball A DREAM park; they charged me nothing at the gate, but led me blithely in, and murmured, as I took my seat: "The home team's sure to win." A winged fan beside me sat, within the grandstand's shade, consuming peppy peanuts and ambrosial lemonade; I asked him why the shining hosts all wore such happy grins; "In heaven there's the happy grin," the home team always wins." The game was nicely under way when I fell out of bed, and burst open my eyes, and fairly spelled my heart; forgetting "I was back on earth, I cried: "How was the game?" The surgeon said: "They shut us out—it was a heavy shame."

The Modern Mary.

Mary had a little lamb; it's fleece was white as snow. Would Mary ever sell the lamb? Why, what a question! No! She kept the lamb in luxury for many, many years, and every now and then she'd go and clip it with her shears, then put it in the bank until she had a fortune of the very topmost rank. While Mary was a wise young girl, her father had a pull and through his lobbying he kept the tariff up on wool.—Chicago Post.

Turn About.

"What!" shouts the patron of the restaurant. "Fifteen dollars for coffee and rolls! It's outrageous. I won't pay it."

"Yes, you will," calmly states the proprietor. "My wife went into your millinery shop yesterday and paid $50 for some new trappings, covered with two feet of lace and an artificial rose."

Uncle Ezra Says

It may be good teaching to turn the other cheek to your adversary and let it be, but my experience has been that it is the best policy to get it out of his way.—Boston Herald.

Now you see how it feels, don't you?"—Judge.

"Please, sir, have you a match," asked the small boy of the hurrying pedestrian. "No, I have not," snapped the man. "Then buy some," exclaimed the boy as he held out a handful of boxes. His old business.—London Globe.

Heart-to-Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

LOVE IS SLANDERED.

Love! Earth and heaven are comprehended in the word. Without it earth would be but desert and there would be no heaven. Love has been greatly slandered. Proverbs have been made about it, proverbs that have lived for centuries and that have been seldom questioned. Among these fallacies is this one: "First love is the only true love."

Experience proves the fallacy of this proverb. First love may be true love, and it may be only "puppy" love, but it is not necessarily the only true love. Love flows from an inexhaustible fountain. If it is real affection it may give itself many times and be as true and as fresh as at first. Other things being equal, first love is apt to be immature and lacking in real depth and power—mere sentiment—while the next love or the next may be fervent and abiding.

Another of these false proverbs is: "Love is blind."

Love is not blind. It is wide awake and alert to see. Above all things, true love is insight. It sees the real. It does not judge by exterior. Where others see only deformity or weakness the keen insight of love will detect both strength and beauty. Many of us would go through the world unloved and our capacities would be unknown did not the keen eyes of love detect and reveal our virtues.

Another false saying:

"True love never did run smooth." As a matter of fact, it usually does run smooth. Why not? It is not dangerous, like false love. Love calls for adjustment. It concerns two persons. It must overcome difficulties inherent in finite people. It is mostly in romances that true love gets into deep difficulties. True love may or may not run smooth; false love seldom or never does.

And still another popular fallacy is contained in the saying:

"True love can never die." It can die. It does die—daily. It can be killed. It need not be murdered outright either; it can be killed by neglect. If love is not fostered and fed it will die of starvation. Love, like everything else, lives and grows and thrives by what it feeds on. False love cannot live; it must die sooner or later. True love may die.

Love has been greatly slandered.

MAY CLEAR LAGOON MYSTERY.

Body Found in Chicago Park May Be St. Louis Woman's.

St. Louis, May 10.—A. A. Boepel, who telephoned the Chicago police Saturday night he thought the woman whose body was found in the Lincoln park lagoon recently was his niece, Mrs. C. A. Lewis, says he had been advised by a friend in Chicago that the body resembled that of his niece. Mrs. Lewis has been away from St. Louis for three years and since then Boepel had not heard from her.

Federation of Musicians Meets.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—Nearly 300 delegates were present today when the fourteenth annual meeting of the American Federation of Musicians opened. Joseph Weber of Cincinnati, the president, was in the chair. The convention will last six days. The Federation is composed of 510 locals in the United States and Canada, with a membership of about 52,000 professional musicians.

Attempts to Blay Police Chief.

Paris, May 10.—A Polisher named Vitkoff made an attempt in a hotel here yesterday, to kill M. Von Kotten, chief of the secret police of Moscow. He fired five shots at the police official, but missed his mark. M. Von Kotten asserts that Vitkoff is a dangerous nihilist, who escaped from Siberia. Vitkoff said that he attacked Von Kotten to expose the methods of the Russian political secret service.

Work for the Young Man.

There is a place for you, young man, and there is a work for you to do. Rouse yourself up and go after it. Put your hands cheerfully and proudly to honest labor. A Spanish maxim runs: "He who loathes wealth, loathes much; he who loathes a friend, loathes more; but he who loathes his惰惰, loathes all."

Sartorial Frankness.

Some "ads" have a double meaning which their originators do not intend to give them. For instance, in the window of a certain clothing store there is displayed, in the midst of a large array of clothes, this sign: "Uncalled for garments."

VIOLET FAVORITE OF SCHOOLCHILDREN

Shy Woodland Beauty Wins Out in Vote For State Flower Held in City Schools.

With the report of three schools yet in the violet has won out in the vote for the state flower by the school children of the city. The majority over all the other flowers in the six schools was one hundred and sixty-two, and when the ballots of the Garfield, Jefferson, and Douglas schools are received, this will no doubt be much increased. The total vote in the Adams, Lincoln, Grant, Webster, Jackson and Washington schools was 1096, 629 of this being cast for violet. White water lily was next with 209 votes. The rest of the vote and the vote by school is as follows:

School	Violet	White water lily	Wild rose	Total
Adams	258	40	40	350
Lincoln	80	43	18	141
Grant	73	29	14	116
Webster	42	39	32	113
Jackson	26	14	15	55
Washington	170	31	41	242
Total	629	100	209	1096

The rest of the schools will probably forward their reports in this evening or tomorrow but it is not likely that there will be any change for the worse in the majority of the violet.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Final action may also be taken with regard to the junk dealers' petition asking that the license fee for their carts be reduced from $25 to $10. A number of reports will be received and considered.

Negative Virtues.

Beware of making your moral stable consist of the negative virtues. It is good to abstain, and teach others to abstain, from all that is sinful or hurtful. Bifocal Spectacles and Eye Glasses

Bifocal Glasses are daily becoming more popular. Many used to object to wearing them before on account of the distinctive line between the parts. This has now been overcome by the fitting of focal lenses. Great care has to be taken, however, in the fitting of the focal lenses. The slightest mistake in the measurement of the focal strength of the eye or fitting of the frame will cause untold trouble. Many pleased customers have given testimonials of their entire satisfaction. Why should you be an exception?

The Peacock is Hailed By All As the Barnyard King

The reason is simple—he wears the kingly robes in the shape of radiant feathers and struts around to the envy of his subjects. And what does this demonstrate? The moral is very evident. It means that regardless of our position in life, or ability in business or our strength of character, much of the admiration we obtain from our fellows is due to our APPEARANCE. A good bearing is man's biggest asset. One may be endowed with a great mind but the achievements of that mind will be sorely handicapped by a slovenly appearance. People may respect the mind, but they won't respect the MAN.

Unlike the peacock, he will never be crowned king.

Take a hint from this object lesson and regardless of what you are and who you are, strengthen your hold further on public esteem and clothe yourself with dignity and grace.

Learn the value of a GOOD APPEARANCE and MAKE that appearance as good as possible.

The inference is apparent.

DIES IN DUBUQUE HOSPITAL TODAY

FATHER L. J. VAUGHN PASSES TO WORLD BEYOND.

A NOTED CATHOLIC DIVINE

Actor, Priest, Shakespearean Student and Playwright Will Be Buried
Here on Thursday.

Father Lawrence J. Vaughn, actor, Catholic priest, Shakespearean student, Chautauqua lecturer and one of the most notable Catholic clergymen in Wisconsin, died early this morning in the hospital at Dubuque, Iowa. Father Vaughn, 42, was a native of St. Louis, Mo., and was a student in Stratton's Business College and in Dental College.

The remains will be brought to Janesville tomorrow evening to his beautiful home at Woodlawn, which he purchased three years ago and has beautified and fitted for his own home. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from St. Mary's church, of which he was assistant until recently, and the interment will be in St. Olivet cemetery.

Father Vaughn was one of the remarkable men of the Catholic priesthood. Born in Fond du Lac forty-five years ago, he first studied for the stage and for many years was seen in the support of some of the leading exponents of the dramatic art, notably Madame Modjeska, one of the premier exponents of Shakespearean roles, then in her prime.

Eighteen years ago he came under the influence of Father Goebel, then priest at Ripon, Wisconsin. Leaving the stage he studied with Father Goebel and aided financially by him attended the Dubuque Catholic college and later the St. Calvary Seminary.

For nine years he prepared for his priestly orders, being ordained eleven years ago and saying his first mass at Father Goebel's church in Ripon. He was assigned to the La Crosse diocese under Bishop Swoback and was for many years at Altoona. Here he built up the church and established a school which has become famous in that section of the state. A devout priest, he did much good in the parish he was stationed at and it was with deep regret he answered the call for higher work and left there. Although still under the rule of the Bishop of La Crosse, he was granted leave of absence to remove to Janesville for literary work and be with his old friend and advisor, Rev. W. A. Goebel.

Meanwhile he had become noted as a public speaker, an exponent of Shakespearean drama, and the demands upon his time for chautauqua lectures were great. He was heard on many of the platforms of the largest chautauquums of the country, and in the winter months was present for time to time in the city of Janesville. A strong, beautiful speaker, he delighted his audiences.

Nor was his work alone confined to the speaking. He brought to his home at Woodlawn many young men of promise, taught and educated them and aided them in their struggle for recognition. Ultimately he hoped to establish a school in Janesville and with this in view purchased the spacious Woodlawn property which he beautified.

Two years ago he suffered a nervous breakdown, strangely enough while addressing an audience at the Janesville Chautauqua. Since then his health has been very poor and it was with regret that he answered the call of his Bishop to take charge of the Cuba City parish the first of the present year.

Some two weeks ago he was stricken with a strange illness that defied the skill of his local physician. He was hurried to the Dubuque hospital and an operation deemed necessary. Dissection in the canal leading to the bladder was removed and it was hoped he would improve. Later a second operation was deemed necessary, but physicians held out hope of recovery.

Last evening Father Goebel was notified that he had suffered another severe hemorrhage and this morning followed and he had passed to the world beyond.

Two sisters—Mrs. Josephine True, who with a son and daughter live at the Woodlawn home, and Mrs. Edwin Trainor of New York city—are left to mourn his loss. His parents died many years ago. Father Vaughn was a remarkable man, a man who made friends wherever he was known and whose death will be sadly felt.

Aside from his priestly work, his chautauqua and literary work, Father Vaughn found time for much literary work and even entered into the realm of dramatic playwriting. Last summer he produced at the Bush Temple, Chicago, his play, "A Woman of the West." Later this production took the road and it will be remembered was produced in Janesville early in September last.

Critics gave the play most favorable mention and a bright prospect for a future struggle to the priesthood was opened before Father Vaughn's eyes. A student, a scholar and devout Catholic, Father Vaughn filled a place that will long be vacant. He was beloved by his parishioners and his many friends were not confined to the church he served so faithfully.

While the final arrangements for the funeral have not as yet been made the services will be held Thursday and the interment will be in the Catholic cemetery here.

FIGHT ON ACADEMY STREET EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

Patrick Mulcahrs Nearly Had Right Eye Gouged Out by a Broken Beer Bottle.

Patrick Mulcahrs and Sam Conley met in a fight and bottle-throwing encounter on Academy street at an early hour Sunday morning and Mr. Mulcahrs came out second best, with a deep circular cut as large as a tea-cup around his right eye. A blue and costs amounting to $6.20 with the alternative of eight days in the county jail was assessed against Mr. Conley this morning but his case was subsequently adjourned a week and sentence suspended. Mr. Mulcahrs was unable to pay $6.20 and took the eight day jail term. Patrick Murphy, one of the Indiana crew employed in excavating the ditch which is to drain the Evansville marsh, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was given time to pay a fine and costs of $1.20. Charles Driskel was unable to negotiate $3.20 and went to the bastille for five days. William Bradley, the Rockford ballplayer, could not pay $6.20 and went to jail for seven days.

PERPLEXING METHODS OF THE TOPP FAMILY

Two Local Banks Cashed Orders for Clairvoyant Saturday, but Made Her Return the Money.

After a local merchant had witnessed Clairvoyant Topp's indorsement of deposit for $85 on the First National bank and $70 on the Merchants & Mechanics' bank, one day last week, he was given reason to suspect that it was the boy's father and not the young man, himself, who had funds on deposit in the two institutions. The certificates were both cashed Saturday, but the clairvoyant was compelled to return the money when the facts regarding the rather unusual proceeding became known. The Topp family resides near the Evansville marsh and Herman Carl Topp, the younger, was in trouble with the authorities for alleged over-drawing on the bank to purchase live-stock about a year ago.

"Half-jags" telegraph complete intoxication and recklessness addressing remarks to women passers-by on the streets Saturday evening were given a few lessons by the police officers, and these lessons are going to be continued with more severe applications for every offense, according to Chief Appleby. They go loitering back and forth on the streets, passing these loafers at frequent intervals and in numerous instances inviting familiarity and improper solicitations."

Watch Excavation to See Gold Unearthed.

Dayton, Ky., May 10.—The whole town is expecting the workmen who are excavating for the structure of St. Francis church to dig up a pot of gold. City officials and many others are constantly on the scene, hoping to see the treasure unearthed.

Tradition says the treasure was laid buried under that site since the raid of Gen. John Hunt Morgan and his band of confederates during the civil war.

The property formerly belonged to the late Matthew McArthur, noted southern sympathizer. The old homestead was famous as an underground station for confederate refugees. As the story goes, there was a subterranean passage leading from the house, and it is here, the passage having long since been filled up, that the treasure is supposed to be.

The money was left there, it is said, by a confederate named Caldwell, who had been sent north to pay the troops of Gen. Morgan, then in this vicinity. He stopped at the McArthur residence, and his presence being disclosed, he secreted the gold, said to amount to several thousand dollars, and escaped, intending to join Gen. Morgan, the latter being killed in Tennessee about the same time.

ASK FOR MORSE'S RELEASE.

Friends Ready to Give $1,000,000 Bond for Former Ice King.

New York, May 10.—Hearing the signatures of more than a score of men prominent in the banking and commercial world, a petition was presented to the United States circuit court of appeals today asking that Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, now in the Tombs, be admitted to bail pending a decision on his appeal.

That his friends stand ready to put up any amount of surety is indicated by the petition, which reads, that "We the undersigned, believing in the innocence of Charles W. Morse of any infamy to defraud the Bank of North America or to deceive the government officials, are willing to become responsible upon his bail bond for the sum of $5,000 each without indemnity. We do this because we do not believe that he will leave the jurisdiction of the court, and that when his case is finally heard and understood he will be acquitted."

A number of the signers, according to Mrs. Morse, have agreed to furnish double or triple the amount stated in the petition, thus assuring a million dollars or more, if necessary.

REPORTER BESTS "WHEAT KING."

Establishes Patten's Identity by Examining His Hat Band.

Chicago, May 10.—James A. Patten, wheat king, is back in Chicago. "I went to New Mexico to get rid of reporters," he said on the way home, "and it didn't do me a bit of good. I've been bothered by them every day in the mountains, after I thought I had lost them."

Mr. Patten importuned the aid of the agents and taxmen to keep reporters off the trail, and when a reporter accosted him and asked him if he were not Mr. Patten, he looked the reporter calmly in the eye and assured him he was not. The reporter looked at Mr. Patten. Mr. Patten continued to look at the reporter, and smiled genially.

"You are going back to Chicago, are you not?" ventured the reporter.

"I am, young man. That is my home. But I am not Mr. Patten. You are mistaken in that."

When Mr. Patten went into the dining room for dinner the reporter cautiously made his way to the hall rack, poked up the passenger's hat and found the name "James A. Patten" on the band.

NEGRO IS QUICKLY LYNCHED.

Florida Mob Gives Woman's Assailant a Short Thrift.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 10.—Mrs. John Deane, wife of a farmer residing at Camden, 15 miles from Jacksonville, was criminally assaulted Saturday by an unidentified negro, who was captured by a mob of citizens and lynched. Mrs. Deane was driving her cows home when the negro attacked her.

Mrs. Deane's screams attracted the attention of her son, who went to her rescue, but the negro had escaped. When the sheriff reached the scene the mob had captured the negro. Mrs. Deane had identified him and his throat had been cut from ear to ear and his body riddled with bullets.

The sheriff could gain no information as to the identity of those in the mob. The body was brought to Jacksonville.

SPOIL $1,000,000 THEFT PLOT.
Russians Caught as They Tunnel Under Treasury at Gori.
Gori, Russia, May 10.—A daring plan to rob the treasury of Gori, in which $1,000,000 are kept, was discovered Saturday. The scheme of the criminals, five men and a woman, was to dig a tunnel into the building from outside. They had progressed a distance of 300 feet, and had reached a point directly below the cellar when a book-keeper heard sounds of excavating and summoned the police to investigate, with the result that all six were captured. It seemed that the criminals relaxed their precautions owing to the fact that yesterday was a holiday. This was the second similar attempt to rob this treasury.

CHAPTER XVII.

Across the Bay.

"Martin, says Van Brunt, 'I guess it's the only safe way. I'll go out on the next train.'"

"We was at the dinner table when he said it. 'Twas one o'clock of the day after the Natural Life sermon" went up in smoke. The weather was still pretty mean, the sky being all clouded over and the sea running high. But it had stopped raining and the gale seemed to be petering out. I was a whole lot better and was able to turn out and work."

I had my hands full that morning, too. All three of us was close to starvation, after 24 hours of short rations, and it took some time to get us filled up. Then I had the pig and horse to see. The poor critters' lives had been more natural even than ours—they hadn't had nothing to eat. The pig was in particular trouble. The rain had turned his pen into a sort of lake and he was playing Robinson Crusoe on a seaweed island in the middle of it. The way he grunted for joy when I looked over the fence was human—yes, sir, human."

Scudder hove in sight about ten and the Heavens fairly fell off his neck when he stepped out of the dory. But they weren't so happy when he'd spun his yarn. It seemed that the kale had blown down the telegraph poles and tangled up the wires and no messages could get through either way, and wasn't likely to for two or three days.

"Twas that that upset the Twins. The Ten Lead market might be tied up in a knot, for what they know, and their 'friends' in the street might be robbing 'em right and left. I nickered over their talk that now was the most ticklish time, something about 'passing a dividend,' or the like of that. So that's what they argued about at the dinner table; and it was decided that Van should go to New York right off and pick up what might be left after their chums and the rest of the forty thieves had got through shaking the contribution box."

"I'll leave at once," Van says; "and he in town to-morrow morning. If all goes well I'll be back here next day. Meanwhile, you, Martin, can be arranging matters with Scudder."

He meant arranging for our quitting Ozone Island for good. They was as anxious now to get out of 'Paradise' as they had been to move into it. If I mentioned a word of Natural Life they all but threw things at me.

I expected for sure that they'd lick Nate Scudder for charging his dry-season rates for secret keeping. But they never mentioned it to him. When I spoke of it to Van Brunt, he laughed.

"Oh, Scudder's all right," he says. "He had a corner in secrets and squeezed the shorts, that's all. That's legitimate. Scudder has a talent of his own."

"Yes, and he's making it ten talents in a hurry, like the feller in Scripture," says I.

"Well, he doesn't hide it in a napkin, anyway," laughs Van.

"No," says I. "I believe he uses one of Hildy Ann's stockings."

About three o'clock we got into the skiff, the three of us, and rowed to the main. 'Twas a hard wet row. I judged the gale wasn't all over yet. We walked up as far as Nate's and there he was waiting in his buggy to drive Van Brunt to the Wellmouth depot. Martin and Van said goodbye and had a final pow-wow over the Tea Land.

"Good-by," says I. "Ain't got any real gift-edged expensive secrets you want kept while you're gone, have you? I'd like to squeeze a short or two, myself."

You ought to have seen Nate Scudder bristle up and glare at me. But his passenger only laughed as usual.

"No," he says, "not a one. My conscience is clear. But I may unearth a few while I'm away."

Well, he did. But not the kind he expected.

I had to step into Nate's house to get a few eggs. Our own hens was too weighted down under the Natural to be working overtime. Hildy Ann had the remnants of a nicked blue set of dishes that was handed down from her

"No," he says, "not a one. My conscience is clear. But I may unearth a few while I'm away."

Well, he did. But not the kind he expected.

I had to step into Nate's house to get a few eggs. Our own hens was too weighted down under the Natural to be working overtime. Hildy Ann had the remnants of a nicked blue set of dishes that was handed down from her great aunt on her grandmother's side, and she thought maybe Hartley'd be interested at a dollar a nick. It took so long to make her believe he wasn't, that we waited an hour or more there. When we got to the hill by the beach 'twas most five o'clock.

"The wind's hauled clear around," says I. "We ain't had all the dirty weather yet. 'Tis'll be a bad night in the bay."

Just then from behind us come the hattering of a wagon and the thumping of a horse's hoofs. Somebody was driving our way like all get out.

"Who in time?" I says. "Runaway, ain't it?"

But 'twas no runaway. In another minute, a horse all hither, hauling a buggy all mad, comes bounding over the hummocky road and down the hill. A girl was driving it.

"Whoa!" she screams, shrill. The horse stopped like he was glad of the chance.

"Eureka Sparrow!" I sings out. "What in the name of goodness—?"

'Twas Eureka, and the team was the one that the Fresh Alvers had hired for the season. The girl looked as if she'd been through the war, who had a shawl pinned 'round her, but it had slipped down 'most to her elbows, and her hat was over on the back of her neck.

"What's the matter?" I asks. "Is Dewey—?"

"Dewey's all right," she says, leaning from the buggy. "It's little Dennis—Heddy. He's awful sick—and—where's Mr. Van Brunt?"

"Gone to New York," says Hartley, stepping up to the wheel. "What is it? Tell me about it."

She was almost crying. "The poor little feller," she says, "he was took this morning. Pains, and such suffering. We sent for Dr. Halley, and he was sick in bed himself. Then James drove over, for Dr. Jones, and he'd gone up to the city to a medical society meeting. There wa'n't nobody left but that new doctor at West End, Dr. Duncan, and nobody likes him. I wouldn't have him to a sick cat. He says it's appendicitis—appendicitis—something or other."

"Appendicitis?" asks Hartley.

"Yup. That's what he says. And he wants an operation to-morrow. And Miss Agnes don't trust him, and she's all upset. She thinks more of that boy—I And she sent me for Mr. Van Brunt, and—"

"Sol," asks Martin, quick. "Is this new doctor a good one?"

"No, no!" says I. "If he said I had diphthery I'd be sure 'twas gone. But there ain't another doctor nowhere around."

"There's one," says Eureka. "If we could only get him. Miss Talford read in the paper day before yesterday that Dr. Jordan, the big surgeon—"

"Surgeon," says I.

"All right, surgeon then. He's at the Wapatomac house for a week. But he probably wouldn't come and the telegraph wires are down and nobody thought to write in time. And that Dr. Duncan thing, he says he'll operate to-morrow morning. If he does he'll kill the boy, just as he does to Emma Macomber's child. What shall we do? Poor Miss Agnes! Can't nobody help her?"

"How can I get to Wapatomac?" asks Martin, sharp and quick.

"You can't," says I. "Not in time to get the doctor. He must reach Eastwich on that morning train or 'twill be too late. The last train has gone to-night. There ain't another till eight o'clock to-morrow. If you took that 't wouldn't reach Wapatomac till ten, and that's no good."

We was silent for a second. Then Eureka jumped up in the buggy and she clapped her hands.

"You can get him!" she cried, her black eyes snapping sparks. "Oh, you can!"

"How?" Martin and me said together.

She pointed towards Ozone Island.

"The sailboat!" she said. "The Dora Bassett! Sail over in her. Then he'll come on the morning train."

I swung around and looked at the waves and the clouds. Wapatomac was clear across the bay miles and miles away. And a night like this was likely to be!

"Lord!" says I. "It's crazy! We'd never live!"

But Martin Hartley was already half way to the skiff. Of course he didn't know the risk, and I did, but—well, there.

"I'll go," says I to Eureka. "You head for the school fast as your horse can travel. Tell the Fago girl not to let Duncan touch the boy till the Jordan man comes or the train comes without him. You understand?"

"You bet you!" says she. "It's splendid! We'll save the boy and Mr. Hartley will be all right with her. Oh, I'm so glad Mr. Van Brunt wa'n't here!"

She whirled the horse around and off she went. I gave one more look at the weather and then ran after Hartley. Save the boy! A considerable bigger chance of not saving ourselves. Well, my school teacher always used to say I'd be drowned some day—if I wa'n't hung first.

I had one reef in when the Dora Bassett swung clear of the outside point of Ozone Island cove. I hated to take another, for I wanted to make time. But I had to take it afore we tackled at the end of the first lee. 'Twas pretty nigh a
